

DELEGATES TO CONVENTIONS

Will Be Selected Tonight By The Republican Voters of Jackson Township.

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT TICKETS

In the Field. Delegates Selected In Various Townships. Taft In Lead.

The Republicans of Jackson township will meet in Society hall this evening to select four delegates and four alternates to the district convention and an equal number of delegates and alternates to the state convention. The Taft and Roosevelt forces are at work today rounding up the voters for the contest which will determine whether the township through its delegates will at North Vernon and Indianapolis vote for the selection of men who will support Taft or whether they vote for men pledged to the ex-president. Meetings were held by the leaders of both sides last night.

It is expected that tonight's convention will be a large one and the contest spirited though there are no indications that the meeting will be other than a quiet and friendly one.

In accordance with the call the convention will be called to order promptly at 7:30 by the township chairman, J. H. Andrews. The convention will then proceed to an organization which will include the election of officers. Both sides express themselves in favor of a vote which will allow the fairest expression possible of presidential preference and it seems probable aboard to conduct the voting and count the ballots will be named which will be made up of representatives of both the Taft and Roosevelt adherents.

Both Taft and Roosevelt tickets for delegates to both conventions have been announced.

The conventions for which delegates are to be selected will be held next week. The district convention will be held at North Vernon Monday, March 25, and the state convention at Indianapolis Tuesday, March 26.

The townships outside of Jackson selected their delegates this afternoon.

Many delegates were selected over the state Friday afternoon and evening. The others will be selected today. Each side won important victories and claims to be satisfied. Taft received almost a solid delegation from Marion county and his managers claim he was given a substantial lead in the state by the returns.

But few delegates were selected in the fourth. The News in an early edition this afternoon showed the delegates selected yesterday about evenly divided. Reports received by District Chairman Lewis showed 3 for Taft in Brown county, 7 for Taft at Greensburg, 2 for Roosevelt in Johnson, 4 for Taft and 4 for Roosevelt in Bartholomew. Roosevelt managers were expecting to get most of the rural delegation in the latter county.

In Hamilton township honors were divided. Mort Oathout, who is for Roosevelt was elected district delegate by a vote of 17 to 14.

Hospital Anniversary.

One year ago today the Schneck Memorial hospital was opened to the public and today the nurses are quietly celebrating the anniversary.

During the year 140 patients were admitted to the hospital and out of that number there have only been six deaths and those six patients were incurable when they entered.

The hospital board is well pleased with management and successful work of Mrs. McClelland and her corps of nurses.

Charles Coryell was the first patient. He was injured on the B. & O. road. Among the operations there have been many serious and delicate ones.

This afternoon a picture was taken of the nurses.

ThBarlow Studio.

To receive recognition by the public one must have done something decidedly worthy of that recognition. The Barlow studio has been kept busy for the last few years building up a reputation that has made the name well known in the city. The studio is splendidly appointed and up to date in every particular, and that their portraits are appreciated is shown by the ever-increasing business.

The composition, lighting and posing of each piece is given the individual attention necessary to make it a study of the most attractive personality. Their pictures of children are more than photographs. They are studies of life that will interest you and your friends.

Being a resident studio, you will find pleasant and comfortable waiting rooms and at times courteous treatment. When the south, these ladies visited seal of the leading studios and neivmised an opportunity to get a nelea in their work.

Their prices are reasonable, consistent with good workmanship and you can get the anything in the photographic line as post cards to ivory miniatures.

Their nature stu are being handled by some of the ing art stores. If you are looking for a gift, nothing would be more appred than a local view painted in water-color.

After several weeks absence the studio will be re-ed Monday, March 25th.

THE CHURCHES.

Nazarene.

Psalms 100:1, 2, 3. "Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lapds. Serve the Lord with gladness: come before his presence with singing."

"Know ye that the Lord he is God: It is He that made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture."

We are glad that we are included in the large army of redeemed people, who are the Lord's sheep. We are endeavoring to lift up the fallen by preaching a clean, pure gospel, which is a complete cure for the disease of sin. Thank God the remedy for sin is greater than the malady.

As a church we are pressing on and are constantly gaining new territory. The results of our recent revival, with Brother Ruth, are most gratifying. Several are going to unite with us in church fellowship. By God's grace we purpose to keep the revival fire continually burning at our altar. Last Sunday morning, one precious soul found Jesus in the complete cleansing of her heart from all sin. In the evening the church was well filled with a most interesting congregation. At the close six lifted their hands for prayer.

We are anticipating unusually good services Sunday. Sunday School at 9:30. Preaching at 10:30.

Preaching at 7:00 in the evening by Mrs. Brandyberry, who will bring a special gospel message to the young people.

All are invited and welcome. M. T. BRANDYBERRY, Pastor.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

CHARLES DICKENS.
Throughout the English speaking world the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Charles Dickens was celebrated on Feb. 7.

Dickens! What a picture gallery of characters appears at the mention of his name—Pickwick and his friends and the immortal Samuel; Tiny Tim, the embodiment of cheerfulness and love; David Copperfield, Oliver Twist and Fagin; the Cherryble brothers; Marley, who was dead as a doornail, and Scrooge; Dick Swiveller and Little Nell.

He was a preacher of righteousness and kindness and justness. And purity—there is not a word in all those thirty volumes of his thirty years of writing that, lying, he would wish to blot out a word that a pure child cannot read.

And how he exalted goodness and truth and beauty! His high purpose and earnestness are a living rebuke to the flimsy novel writers of our day who are all for art and nothing for the heart.

He put an end to the prison for debtors.

He closed the doors of the Yorkshire type of schools.

He made hypocrisy hideous in the humble Cripple Heep and crime repulsive in Bill Sikes.

He made Pecksniff an adjective and wrote it in front of very pious humbug. Every pompous ne'er-do-well is a Micawber.

Why does the world continue to read and love Dickens? Because he photographed life. He of all artists held the mirror up to nature. His wonderful power of observation made the portraits clear.

Note this:

One reads Dickens and gains the faculty of seeing humans and things. The same sort of people he pictured live about us today, and we know them not until we have learned to look at them with his eyes.

To know Dickens is to have an observant, kindly friend at one's elbow.

He is also an inspiration.

He saw the good and emphasized it.

He saw the bad and characterized it.

If there is any book of his you have not read, read it. It will not hurt you. It will help you.

Honor to his memory!

CHICAGO MERCHANT MAKES STATEMENT.

After Spending Thousands of Dollars and Consulting the Most Eminent Physicians, He Was Desperate.

CHICAGO, ILLS.—Mr. J. G. Becker, of 134 Van Buren St., a well-known wholesale dry goods dealer, states as follows:

"I have had catarrh for more than thirty years. Have tried everything on earth and spent thousands of dollars for other medicines and with physicians, without getting any lasting relief, and can say to you that I have found Peruna the only remedy that has cured me permanently.

"Peruna has also cured my wife of catarrh. She always keeps it in the house for an attack of cold, which it invariably cures in a very short time."

FAITHFUL WORK.

The expression, "Faithful work is always of the same size," appeared in a recently published article. It opens a world of thought to those who pause long enough to consider such matters, besides offering a generous share of comfort and encouragement to those who sometimes grow disheartened at the apparent result of their efforts. It is true that the world is not always as appreciative as it might be, but then while the world has a big heart and, as a rule, a kindly disposition, it does not always show its appreciation at the moment, says the Charleston News and Courier. It is just this apparent lack of encouragement that makes us lose heart at times and wonder whether after all it is worth while to do our best. The big things in life seem to take up so much room in the public eye that the smaller and just as worthy matters are crowded out. At least that is the impression which many persons form who see the effects of large efforts, whether they be along constructive, or charitable or educational lines. In a way these effects are spectacular; indeed there is a large proportion of mankind who require brilliant effects to make them display interest in passing events. The quiet, unobtrusive worker intent upon results he accomplishes more than upon the impression he creates in overlooked many times, and after a while the want of attention given him and the lack of encouragement offered him find expression in his attitude of growing discontent towards life.

A crusade on "fads and frills" in the public schools of the city is to be started in New York, with more thoroughness and less experimentation as its slogan. Everywhere there seems stirring this revolt against the excessive system of experiment to which the schools have been subjected, with corresponding loss of thorough grounding in essentials. The educational theories of the present seem to share the prominent American craze for speed, more or less regardless of the risks involved in attaining it. The agitation, which appears to be general, will doubtless result in restoring the pendulum, which has swung too far in both directions of conservatism and progress, to its normal swaying.

There is a New York statute against the revelation by physicians of the secrets of the consultation room; but a New York judge has decided that it does not prevent a doctor from describing the services which he has performed when he finds it necessary to sue for the collection of his fee. In that case, the judge rules, the physician may proceed with his action, alleging anything and everything that is necessary, without either directly or indirectly becoming liable for violation of the law. The decision would seem to be reasonable. It is a mean man who will refuse to pay a fair fee to his doctor.

At a meeting lately of a fire-protection association it was stated that fire in the United States cost $500 a minute. Also, that the annual life loss was 1,500 people, and that 5,000 are annually injured. This showing is a disgrace to civilization. The vast majority both of life and property loss is preventable, and the big mistake of the age is in treating such loss under the head of accidents.

The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that one Chinaman is a laundry, but that one white washerwoman is only a washerwoman. Which shows that even the most solemn tribunal of the land is not without its sense of native American humor.

Professor Muensterberg's demonstration of the fact that a man is betrayed in lying by the acceleration of a pulse does not cover the ground. Many a man has palpitation of heart every time he thinks a bill collector is coming around the corner.

Coal to the value of $637,000, the place of production was in the United States last year. The use of the country's coal product place of consumption would be erably more stupendous still.

Tailors announce that they make the 1912 man look small in many cases, however, they fit themselves to the mere measurement.

At last the idea has dawned on some intellectual giant that butter is so high in price that not enough cows at work

SUGAR HEARING IS SHORTENED

Company Volunteers Information Sought By Government.

SAVES HOURS OF TESTIMONY

Upon Agreement of the Prosecution to Waive Right to Call Witnesses Which Would Prolong Trial Indefinitely, the Company Promises to Supply a Statement Covering the Ground Involved.

New York, March 23.—The United States district court this morning has rested its case against John E. Parsons, Washington, Thomas and the other sugar trust men on trial for conspiracy under the Sherman law. It was intimated that the defense would not take over three days. It will hinge largely on the character of Adolph Segal and his motions.

The trial was markedly shortened by a decision of Judge and ruling out all testimony regarding transactions between G. E. Kissel and Segal other than those which had to do with the $1,250,000 loan in which Kissel acted as the agent for the sugar trust. Another ruling excluded any testimony having to do with the legal matter following the receipt of, and hence George H. Earle of Philadelphia, who, as receiver of the Estate Trust company compelled the sugar trust to pay over $2,000,000 was not called as a witness, though it was in court under subpoena. Agreement the government was not compelled to put in evidence showing other acts of the company to bribe about a monopoly, which threatened prolong the trial indefinitely. Jas. M. Beck, counsel for the company, stated to the court that if the government would waive the right to call witnesses and documents bearing on this he would supply a statement showing what refineries the company had or controlled in 1903, at the time the Segal matter, what refineries in operation and their capacity and what refineries were shut down in this connection that out of refineries owned or controlled company operated but four.

Testimony giving that other persons held shares in the Pennsylvania refinery of Segal and his associates given by several witnesses called by the prosecution. Of the $8,000 securities, it was brought independent holders held $3,610,000. Alexander C. Thompson, manager the Colonial Trust company of St. Louis, who sold some of these securities, said that a 50 or 100 per cent bonus went with the bonds, said that Segal had paid him $1 month to help him float the security and that he had got all told $9,000 for twenty-three months work. Thomas W. Synnott of N. J., said he had $500,000 of bonds and got an equal amount of cash as a bonus.

Of the witnesses was Ernest W. Geary, who was once superintendent of the Havemeyer and Elder refinery, was convicted for the underground frauds. He testified that it was easier to refine sugar in Philadelphia.

PEACE PROPOSAL

Operators Make First Movement Toward Adjustment.

Cleveland, O., March 23.—Rejection of the offer by the miners' officers of an offer by the present wage conditions and keep mines working after April 1, put threatened coal strike squarely upon the United Mine Workers' policy committee, which meets here Monday. The most important feature of the day's events was the first step toward peace, and it was taken by the mine owners. It was the abandonment of their demand for a decrease in the basic wage scale of 10 cents from the present rate of 95 cents a ton on the screened lump basis. Coupled with the offer was a condition that mines be not closed after April 1 pending ratification of an agreement.

ESKIMO TRIBE STILL LIVING IN STONE AGE

Report of a Strange People in the Far North.

Washington, March 23.—A new tribe of Eskimos has been discovered in the region of Bailey island on the Arctic coast, according to a report received at the state department from Consul Dawson, Yukon territory.

Mr. Dawson reported that Bishop George Holmes, on a journey of 2,500 miles in the territory of Athabasca and McKenzie met a party of Englishmen, who told of this discovery. The discoverers, Dr. Anderson and M. Stefansson, found a large settlement of these Eskimos, numbering about 1,000. Some of them were of light complexion, with blue eyes and sandy beards. Bows and arrows and stone axes and other primitive weapons were still in use by them.

HERE'S A SCHEME FOR BRAND NEW CONGRESS

Mr. Lindbergh Would Alter the Whole System.

Washington, March 23.—A resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution authorizing a radical reorganization of the legislative branch of the federal government has been prepared by Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota.

The Lindbergh resolution will provide for a house of representatives of 315 members, with no upper branch. Three hundred members would be elected for terms of seven years. Fifteen of the members would be elected by the country at large, each for a term of fifteen years. Mr. Lindbergh's resolution will provide that the fifteen members thus elected shall be known as the committee at large.

The committee at large will have a veto power over legislation passed by the house proper. Legislation disapproved by the committee at large would not go to the president for approval unless passed over the committee's veto by a two-thirds vote of the house. The Lindbergh resolution will provide that only native born Americans shall be eligible for election to the committee at large. The reason for this is that with the office of vice president abolished succession to the presidency is provided for through the committee. In the event of disability or death of the president, the Lindbergh plan provides that the chairman of the committee shall succeed to the office.

The principle of the recall will be a prominent feature of the Lindbergh resolution. It will provide that any member of the house or any member of the committee at large may be recalled at any biennial election. "The senate is no longer responsive to public sentiment," said Lindbergh. "A house of 300 members could work more expeditiously and with better results than a house of 391 members as at present or a house of 432 members, such as we will have in the next congress."

STATE CONVENTION

Republicans Will Meet to Name Delegates to National Convention.

Indianapolis, March 23.—The first of the two Republican state conventions to be held this year will be held next Tuesday at Tomlinson hall, beginning at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. William L. Taylor, former attorney general, will be the chairman of the convention, and C. F. Bicknell of Ft. Wayne will be the secretary. The convention will consist of 1,439 delegates, and has been called for the purpose of selecting four delegates at large to the national convention. The delegates will meet by districts Monday evening and select two delegates from each district to attend the Chicago convention, these selections to be ratified by the state convention.

MOVEMENT SPREADS

Even the Women of China Are Demanding Full Right to Vote.

Nanking, March 23.—Chinese suffragettes attacked the assembly rooms, routed statesmen from their desks and broke all the windows in the building. The women are enraged because of the restrictions which were placed on them by the resolutions granting them the right of franchise.

The women were finally attacked by a squad of police and a general fight followed. The women were put to flight after several had been arrested.

TO BEAR DOWN ON THE TRUSTS

Congress Preparing to Strengthen the Sherman Law.

THE COMMITTEE IS AT SEA

Just What Provisions Will Be Devised For Meeting the Objections to the Present Anti-Trust Law Is Not Now Known, but the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce Will Give the Matter Careful Consideration.

Washington, March 23.—In the opinion of the senate interstate commerce committee further trust legislation by congress is necessary and desirable. This decision was reached at a session of the committee following which it was decided to begin immediately the drafting of a bill that will meet the objections and to strengthen the weakness of the Sherman law. The committee will hold daily meetings in the future, reviewing the mass of testimony bearing on the question of trust regulation that has been taken in the past several months and considering the provisions of the several bills that have been introduced in the senate or presented to the committee by invitation.

The discussion in the committee following the agreement that legislation was necessary developed practically unanimous sentiment for the rejection of the proposition for the creation of a commission with price fixing powers. This proposal was advanced by Judge Gary of the steel corporation and was championed in the hearings before the committee by several other persons of prominence who appeared by invitation to offer suggestions concerning the need of the modification of the Sherman law.

Members of the senate committee were at sea as to the provisions of the bill to be framed, but all agreed that it probably will be a composite measure embracing features from the several bills that have been presented to the committee. Senator Cummins's bill, which embodies many of the provisions of the measure introduced by Senator Newlands, is believed to meet with the views of many senators.

HEAD-ON CRASH

Traction Cars Meet on the Same Track Near Fortville.

Fortville, Ind., March 23.—Bert Minzer, motorman on a westbound passenger car on the Indiana Union Traction line, was killed in a head-on collision with an eastbound passenger car one and one-half miles west of Fortville. Both cars were telescoped and splintered as far back as the end of the smoker. The cars did not leave the track.

It is estimated that eighteen or twenty passengers were on the eastbound car and that approximately fifty persons were on the westbound car. Of these a dozen or more were injured, nine so seriously that they were taken to an Indianapolis hospital for treatment.

Minzer was pinned under the wreckage of the eastbound car. Both cars were set on fire by the heating apparatus and Minzer was burned to death.

Misunderstanding of Orders.

Plymouth, Ind., March 23.—Through a misunderstanding of orders a head-on collision between a southbound passenger train and a northbound "double-header" extra freight occurred on the Lake Erie & Western on a sharp curve at the edge of Muckshaw lake, one mile south of this city. Seven trainmen and several passengers were injured and three locomotives were demolished.

MEXICAN CONGRESS HOOTS AT MADERO

Violent Scenes Mark Election of Speaker.

Mexico City, March 23.—In the chamber of deputies a fight was started between the government and the opposition over the presence of Deputy Liceaga, a member of the government who had resigned to accept another job. The roll call was carried by the government party and Liceaga remained as a member. The election of a speaker for the ensuing regular session, which will be begun on April 1, led to a stormy discussion.

The sensation of the session occurred when Felix Diaz, a nephew of former President Diaz, cast his vote against the government candidate. The galleries accorded him a tremendous ovation, which lasted for fifteen minutes. Shouts of "Long live the Diaz family" and "Death to Madero" caused several fights and the police had to interfere while the session was suspended until the galleries were partly cleared. Meanwhile Sergio Lerma remained motionless below the speaker's rostrum. Guillermo Oberlin, the government's candidate, was elected speaker after many quarrels and much excitement.

Who Figured In Virginia Tragedy,
Were Known By Columbus Minister.

FORMERLY LIVED AT PULASKI.

Rev. H. W. Book, Known In Seymour,
Talks of Men Involved
In Trouble.

Rev. H. W. Book, pastor of the Christian church at Columbus, was formerly pastor of a church at Pulaski, Va., and knew Judge Massie and the others who figured in the tragedy at Hillsville a few days ago when all of the court officials and others were killed by the Allen gang. He was in college with Thomas Felts, who is leading the detectives who have been pursuing the desperadoes. Some of the Edwards family were connected with the Allens in the tragedy. The Columbus Republican says: As a sample of the nerve displayed by these mountaineers the minister tells a story of one of the members of the Edwards family, who went to St. Louis about twenty-five years ago, when that town was considered rather wild and wooly. When Edwards alighted from a train he was spotted by a man who invited him to attend a free show. Edwards demurred at first but finally accepted the invitation. He was led into a building and through several doors. He noticed that every door was locked behind him, and he began getting ready to defend himself. Finally the leader stopped in a gambling room and invited Edwards to have a game of cards. Edwards said he did not want to play, whereat the gambler told him to go ahead and play. "We will get your money anyhow," said the gambler. This was all the Virginian wanted, so he floored the gambler. Then he unlimbered a heavy mountain revolver and ordered all hands up. The other gamblers were not slow in complying with the demand when they saw Edwards meant business. He marched all of them before him, collecting others as they passed through the various rooms, and when the street door was reached he had a good sized collection of men ahead of him. Edwards had the gang covered with his revolver all the time and informed them that he intended to march them into the street and to police headquarters. They offered him $250 to give them their freedom. "Shell out," said Edwards, and the gamblers did so. Edwards then pocketed his gun and money and left the gamblers in peace.

The Rev. Mr. Book says Detective Felts is one of the most famous gun men in Virginia. Once Felts was riding on a train and wanted to get off at the next station and mail a letter. He was standing on the car platform when a brakeman came along and ordered him inside the coach. Felts declined to go in and they began to fight. The fight continued until the next station was reached. The brakeman had to get off to attend to his duties and Felts dropped off to mail his letter. When the train started again the brakeman returned with all the available members of the train and the fight was resumed. Felts held his own against three men and this gave him such a reputation that he was given a position as detective for the railroad. Since that time he has joined the Baldwin detectives, famous in Virginia, and is now their chief detective.

Felts has killed at least a dozen men, the Rev. Mr. Book says, and he says he believes the detectives will kill every one of the Allen gang unless the members of the gang surrender.

Thousands of wall-eyed pike will be pitted against carp in Diamond lake, in Stevens county, 30 miles north of Spokane, in an effort to exterminate the scavengers. The Inland Empire Game Protective and Propagation association, of which J. S. Little of Spokane, is secretary, has applied to the fisheries department at Washington, D. C., for 100,000 eggs, to be deposited on the sandy beaches of the lake. United States Senator Miles Poindexter says in a letter to the association that the request will be granted. The campaign to rid waters of eastern Washington and northern Idaho and other parts of the Inland Empire of carp will be continued with vigor this spring and summer, and with the addition of new fish the anglers are promised better fishing. So far no one has been able to learn definitely how the carp were brought to lakes in Spokane district. The cannibal has destroyed millions of game fish eggs in the last few years and is multiplying rapidly. Seining has been tried, but not one of the lakes has yet been cleared.

Another cluster light is being erected today, it being located in front of the Dehler stores on Chestnut street. These lights add greatly to the appearance of the Seymour business section. They have already been put up in front of the First National Bank and the Hub.

LARGE EXPENDITURE

May Be made On Washington B. & O.
Round House.

The Washington Democrat says regarding some possible B. & O. improvements there:

"Officers of the Southwestern division of the B. & O. railroad are trying to get the sanction of the higher officials of the B. & O. road for the expenditure of a sum of money between $56,000 and $57,000 for improvements they hope to have made at the local railroad shops.

The matter has been under consideration for some time and as the officers of the Southwestern division are unanimous in their reports that the improvements are badly needed, it is not believed any difficulty will be experienced in getting the allowance from the higher officials.

Since the large "monkey motion" freight engines have come into general use now over the entire Southwestern division and as there is no other place along the line that is anywhere near prepared to take care of them, the need of repairs and improvements in the local round house has been greatly felt and it is for this purpose that the appropriation of over $56,000 is being asked.

The old turn table in the round house is barely able to handle the larger engines and it is the plan to put in a new turntable eighty feet in diameter and with the latest improvements. With this new table the facilities for handling these monster engines would be greatly increased. Running and light repairs have to be made on these engines while they are standing in the round house, which necessitates them remaining there for a period of several days at a time. The round house stalls as they now are, are not long enough to house the engines properly and it is the plan to extend the round house so that there will be ample room. Other minor repairs about the round house have also been suggested.

Better Than Carbolite at That.

A tramp ran into a printing office and said that a man had just swallowed a two-foot rule and was dying by inches. The editor started out to learn the particulars of the death, and meeting a doctor, told him about the case. He said that was nothing; he once had a patient who swallowed a thermometer and died by degrees. A couple of by-standers then chipped in. One said it reminded him of a nice young fellow out in Kansas who swallowed a pistol and went off easy. The other said he had a friend in New Jersey who swallowed a pint of applejack and went off in good spirits. We once heard of a man who ate some horse meat and died of night-mare. We once asked an old German if his son, who swallowed a tape measure, had died by inches, and he replied that his son "went out in the back alley and died by the yard."—Linton Times.

A Jeffersonville item in the Courier-Journal says: "Mrs. J. F. Gebhart, of Seymour, a former resident of the city, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Hedden, Ekin avenue and Vincennes street, for several days before going to New York to make her home with her son, J. R. Gebhart, who has located there. Mrs. Gebhart, accompanied by her daughter-in-law, will leave Monday for New York.

L. F. Miller will next week move his racket store to the new building south of the new Union Hardware Company's new store rooms.

Judge Jackson Honored.

Judge Jackson has been highly honored by the National Council of the Junior Order of American Mechanics, having been selected as a member of the National Board of Judges to grade and select the three best manuscripts on the subject: Any boy or girl having written the best story on a subject of their own selection, but in it portraying Virtue, Patriotism and Liberty, will receive a cash prize of $25; for the second best, $15, and for the third best $15. The writers for these prizes are to be not older than twenty, and either boy or girl may write without disclosing their identity.

This contest is being promoted by Editor Fred W. Stevens of the Pottsburg American, the official organ of the order and Judge Jackson has received the manuscripts, and states that, being the last of the three to pass on the papers, judging from the style of writing and wording a girl of eighteen has won first prize, and a boy of the same years the second prize.—New Castle Times.

Commercial Club Meeting.

The Commercial Club held a meeting at the city building. The attendance was not as large as usual owing to other meetings and attractions in the city. Business of general interest was discussed.

B. & O. Division Superintendent E. R. Scoville held a staff meeting this morning. The Ohio Division Safety committee of the B. & O. held a meeting this afternoon. Member W. L. Gieckler will no doubt bring up movement started by an eastern man at Washington, D. C., to abolish suspension of trainmen for mistakes made during work. A merit and demerit system is advocated in the movement. So many demerits will mean a suspension. In this way, a trainman will be given a chance to be on the alert after his first mistake. The movement, it is understood, also advocates a twice-a-month pay day. Division Claim Agent DeCamp of Cincinnati was present at the meeting.—Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

William O'Neill of Mishawaka, who was nominated for lieutenant-governor by the Democrats, spent several days in Seymour during the state meeting of the Grange a short time ago.

Judicial Ticket.

The Indianapolis News bitterly criticizes the domination of the Democratic state convention by the Taggart machine, especially in the selection of the judicial ticket. The News was particularly severe in the criticism of Judge Shea's nomination and indicated that it will oppose him at the election. The paper Friday said editorially:

"In these days when good men everywhere are doing their utmost to stop the dangerous movement looking to recall of judges or their decisions we should think that party conventions would be somewhat careful in regard to the qualifications of the men whom they choose for judicial position. We doubt whether any man will say that the Democratic convention yesterday observed that rule. As a whole, the judicial ticket is a Taggart ticket. And, of course, it is preposterous that he and Crawford Fairbanks should have any influence in the making of judges."

"One man chosen yesterday, Joseph H. Shea, is as much to Taggart's liking as is Judge Buskirk of the 'valley.' He ought not even to have been considered as a possibility for the appellate bench of the state. It can not be that the people of Indiana, even in this supposedly Democratic year, will elect him. The other two men, Spencer and Erwin, were nominated by the Taggart influence. No judge ought to owe anything whatever to such a machine as that run by Taggart and his brewer friend."

Bench and bar alike ought to exert all the influence they possess in this business of selecting judges. The courts, as every one knows, are today under fire. Men are actually trying to overthrow our institutions in order that they may get rid of certain admitted evils in the administration of justice. Therefore, every good citizen, every man who believes in the American system of government, should set himself resolutely to work to right matters. Party conventions should exercise the utmost care in their judicial nominations, excluding them absolutely from the political game as it is ordinarily played. This was not done yesterday. On the contrary, Taggart's hand was as powerful in making the judicial ticket as in all the other work of the convention. The result is that the party is still further weakened, and that a dangerous movement may acquire some degree of respectability. The arrogance of power could hardly go further."

WILL BE NECESSARY

To Shut the Chicken Yard Gate on April 1.

The time is near when to comply with the law it will be necessary to shut the chicken yard gate.

In April 1906 the Seymour council passed an ordinance making it contrary to law to allow chickens and fowls to run at large in the city from April 1 to October 1 of each year. Any person violating this ordinance will be subject to a fine of $5 and costs and city officials say the law will be strictly enforced this season.

Judge Shea Returns.

Judge Joseph H. Shea, who was successful in his race for the Democratic nomination for appellate judge, returned home last night accompanied by several local politicians who had spent the week in Indianapolis. Judge Shea was of course well pleased with his success and gratified with the warm support he recently received from home.

CHAPTER XIV.
THROUGH THE FOG.

THE dense veil overhanging the city, while favorable to John Steele in some respects, lessening for the time his own danger, made more difficult the task to which he now set himself. He dared not too closely approach the figure before him lest he should be seen and his purpose divined. Once or twice Dandy Joe looked around, more perhaps from habit than any suspicion that he was followed.

At a crossing, where opposing currents had met and become congested, utter confusion reigned. From the masses of vehicles of all kinds, constituting a seemingly inextricable blockade, arose the din of hoarse voices.

Joe essayed to cross. By dint of dodging and darning between restless horses he reached the other side. A sudden closing in of cabs and carts midway between curbs held John Steele back. He caught quickly at the bridle of the nearest horse and forced it aside. An exclaiming shout, a half scream from somewhere, greeted the action. A whip snapped, stung his cheek.

"Turn back. Get out of this somehow, cabby!" He heard familiar tones, saw the speaker, Sir Charles, and, by his side—yes, through the curtain of fog, so near he could almost reach out and touch her, he saw as in a flash Jocelyn Wray!

She, too, saw him, the man in the street, his pale face lighted up ghost-like from the mist. A cry fell from her lips, was lost amid other sounds. An instant eyes looked into eyes, hers dilated, his unnaturally bright, burning! Something struck him—a wheel. He half fell, recovered himself, managed to reach the curb.

Dandy Joe had disappeared. The hope of attaining his end through him, of being led to the retreat of one he had so long desired to find, had proved illusive.

John Steele did not go far in mere aimless fashion. Leaning against a wall, he strove once more to plan, but ever as he did so through his thought the girl's fair face, looking out from enshrouding lace, intruded.

He forgot his purpose, when a figure coming out of a public house through one of the doors near which he had halted caught his attention. Dandy Joe, a prodigal with unexpected riches, wiped his lips as he sauntered past John Steele and continued his way, lurching a little.

For a time they two seemed the only pedestrians that had ventured forth that night in a locality so uninviting. Through the gulchlike passage swept a cold draft of air. It made little rifts in the fog and showed an entrance—a dim light. At the same time the sound of the footsteps in front abruptly ceased.

For a few minutes Steele waited. He looked toward the place Dandy Joe had entered. It was well known to him and, what seemed more important, to Mr. Gillett. The latter would remember it in connection with the Frisco Pet and presumably turn to it as a likely spot to search for him who had been forced to leave Captain Forsythe's home. That contingency—nay, probability—had to be considered. The one person he most needed to find had taken refuge in one of the places he would have preferred not to enter. But no time must be lost hesitating. He had to choose. Dismissing all thought of danger from without, thinking only of what lay before him within, he moved quickly forward and tried the door. He entered, felt his way in the darkness through winding passages downward, avoiding a bad step—did he remember even that?

How paltry details stood out! The earthen floor still drowned the sound of footsteps. The narrow hall took the same turns.

A shaft of light like a sword, from the crack of a door, gleamed on the Free to You and Every Sister Suffering from Woman's Ailments.

I am a woman.
I know woman's sufferings.
I have found the cure.
I will mail, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from woman's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—yes, my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourselves at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is safe and sure cure for Leucorrhoea or Whitish discharges, Ulceration, Displacement or Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors, or Growths; also pain in head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, kidney, and bladder troubles where caused by weakness peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete ten day's treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember, that, it will cost you nothing to give the treatment a complete trial; and if you do not feel better after ten days, return the box and your money. dark floor before him. He stepped toward it. The low sound of men's tones could be heard—Joe's; a strange voice, no, a familiar one, that caused the listener's every fiber to vibrate.

"And what did you say when he pumped you for the cote?"

"That you would rather call on him."

"And then he cared nought for the job? You're sure"—anxiously—"he wasn't playing to find out?"

The other answered jocosely and walked away. A door closed behind him. For a time the stillness remained unbroken. Then a low rattle, as of dice on a table, caused John Steele to glance through a crevice. What he saw seemed to decide him to act quickly. He lifted a latch and stepped in. As he did so a huge man with red hair sprang to his feet. From one great hand the dice fell to the floor. His shaggy jaw drooped. Casting over his shoulder the swift glance of an entrapped animal, he seemed about to leap backward to escape by a rear entrance when the voice of the intruder arrested his purpose, momentarily held him.

"Oh, I'm alone! There are no police outside." He spoke in the dialect of the pickpurse and magsman. To prove it, John Steele stooped and locked the door.

The small bloodshot eyes lighted with wonder. The heavy brutish jaws began to harden. "Alone?"

The other tossed the key. It fell at the man's feet. John Steele walked over to the opposite door and shot a heavy bolt there. "Looks as if it would hold," he said in thieves' argot as he turned around.

"Are ye a gaby?" The red headed giant stared ominously at him.

"On the contrary," coolly, "I know very well what I am doing."

A question interlarded with oaths burst from the other's throat. John Steele regarded the man quietly. "I should think it apparent what I want," he answered. As he spoke he sat down. "It is you," bending his bright, resolute eyes on the other.

"And you've come alone?" He drew up his ponderous form.

John Steele smiled. "I assure you I welcomed the opportunity."

"Do you know what I am going to do to you?"

"I haven't any curiosity," still clinging to thieves' jargon or St. Giles Greek. "But I'm sure you won't play me the trick you did the last time I saw you."

The fellow shot his head near.

"You're the swell cove who wanted to palaver that night when?"

"You tried to rob me," John Steele laughed. "Do you know the penalty for attempting that game, Tom Rogers, alias Tom-o-the-Road, alias?"

The man fell back. "Who are you? By —" he said.

"John Steele."

"John Steele?" The bloodshot eyes became slightly vacuous. "The —?"

Then you used him," indicating savagely the entrance at the back, "for a duck to uncover? I'll burke you for that!"

John Steele did not stir. "How? With the lead or—"

The fellow lifted his hairy fists. "Those are all!"

"In that case?" Steele took the weapon on which his hand had rested from his pocket, and, rising with alacrity, he placed it on a rickety stand behind him—"you have me a little outclassed. About seventeen stone, I should take it. I barely turn thirteen myself. However," tossing his coat in the corner, "you look a little soft—hardly up to what you were when you got the belt for the heavyweight championship. Do you remember? The Frisco Pet went against you, but he was only a low, ignorant sailor and had let himself get out of form. You beat him—beat him!"—John Steele's eyes glittered; he touched the other on the arm—"though he fought seventeen good rounds. You stamped the heart out of him, Tom!"

The red headed giant's arms fell to his side. "How do you?"

"I was there!" An odd smile crossed Steele's determined lips. "Lost a little money on that battle. Recall the fourteenth round? He nearly had you, but you played safe in the fifteenth, and then—you sent him down—down." John Steele's voice died away. "It was a long time before he got up," he added, almost absently.

"You know all that?"

"And all the rest!"

"See here, what's your little game? Straight now, quick! You come here without the police. Why?"

John Steele's reply was to the point. He stated exactly what he wanted and what he meant that the other should give him. As the fellow heard he breathed harder. He held himself in with difficulty.

"And so that's what you've come for, mister?" he said, a hoarse guffaw falling from the coarse lips. John Steele answered quietly. "And you think there is any chance of your getting it? May I be asking," with an evil grin, "how you expect to make me, Tom Rogers," bringing down his great fist, "do your bidding?"

"In the first place, by assuring you no harm shall come to you. It is in my power to avert that in case you comply. In the second place, you will be given enough sovereigns to—" "Quids, eh? Let me have sight of them, mister. We might talk better."

"Do you think I'd bring them here, Tom-o-the-Road? No, no!" brusquely.

"That settles it."

"In giving you your choice of doing what I ask or of being turned over to the traps."

"The traps?" The other fellow's face became contorted. "You mean that you?"

"Will give you up for that little job unless—"

For answer the man launched his huge body forward, with fierce swinging fists. He beat, rushed, strove to close. His opponent's lithe body evaded a clutch that might have ended the contest.

The other came at him, muttering. The mill was unduly prolonging itself. He would end it. His fist struck at that face so elusive, but crashed against the wall. Like a flash Steele's arm lifted. The great form staggered and fell.

Quickly, however, it rose, and the battle was resumed. John Steele's every muscle ached. His shoulder was bleeding anew. The need for acting quickly, if he should hope to conquer, pressed on him. Fortunately, Rogers in his blind rage was fighting wildly. John Steele endured blow after blow; then, as through a mist, he found at length the opening he sought—an instant's opportunity on which all depended.

Every fiber of his physical being responded. He threw himself forward. The weight of his body, the force of a culminating impetus, went into his fist. It hit heavily full on the point of the chin beneath the brutal mouth. Tom Rogers' head shot back as if he had received the blow of a hammer, and he threw up his arms. This time he lay where he struck the ground.

John Steele swayed. With an effort he sustained himself. Was it over? The prostrate man did stir now. He groaned. John Steele touched him with his foot.

"Get up," he said.

John Steele went to the stand, picked up his revolver and then sat down at a table. "You're as foul a fighter as you ever were," he said contemptuously.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

How Mrs. Reed of Peoria, Ill., Escaped The Surgeon's Knife.

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For twenty years I suffered. The doctor said I had a tumor and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a well and healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. I am glad to tell anyone what your medicines have done for me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Mrs. Lynch Also Avoided Operation.

Jessup, Pa.—"After the birth of my fourth child, I had severe organic inflammation. I would have such terrible pains that it did not seem as though I could stand it. This kept up for three long months, until two doctors decided that an operation was needed.

"Then one of my friends recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after taking it for two months I was a well woman."—Mrs. JOSEPH A. LYNCH, Jessup, Pa.

Women who suffer from female ills should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, one of the most successful remedies the world has ever known, before submitting to a surgical operation.

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur Makes Gray Hair Vanish—A Remedy for All Hair Troubles

Who does not know the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature graying, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is thin or turning gray, get a bottle of this remedy from your druggist to-day, and see what it will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

HER FRIEND'S GOOD ADVICE

The Results Made This Newburg Lady Glad She Followed Suggestion.

Newburg, Ala.—"For more than a year," writes Myrtle Cotherum, of this place, "I suffered with terrible pains in my back and head. I had a sallow complexion, and my face was covered with pimples. Our family doctor only gave me temporary relief.

A friend of mine advised me to try Cardui, so I began taking it, at once, and with the best results, for I was cured after taking two bottles. My mother and my aunt have also used Cardui and were greatly benefited.

I shall always praise Cardui to sick and suffering women."

Cardui is a purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, tonic remedy for women, and will benefit young and old.

Its ingredients are mild herbs, having a gentle, tonic effect, on the womanly constitution.

Cardui has helped a million women back to health and strength.

Have you tried it? If not, please do. It may be just what you need.

SATURDAY NIGHT SERMONS

BY REV. SAMUEL W. PURVIS, D.D.

THE SKELETON IN THE CLOSET.

Text, "There is nothing hidden that shall not be revealed."—Matt. x, 26.

"There's a skeleton in every closet."

True. Ghastly, gruesome, hideous, it stands, staring with eyeless sockets, grinning with lipless jaws. You open the door of memory, forgetful for a moment, and there stands that fearful thing, reminder of the past. "O God! I thought it was dead." No, only hidden. Smash it in one closet, it appears in another. Never did Doyle or Hugo write detective story so thrilling. The Javert of your sinful past forever on the track of the Valjean of your better self. Quick! Shut the door on the horrid phantom! Did any one get a glimpse? By any subtle telepathy could another read your thoughts? Your heart thumps outrageously. The door is slammed tight and the key turned. You breathe easier. You even smile to think how foolish were your fears. And yet it's there! This world is a mighty poor place for hiding secrets. The sin of yesterday, of last year, of five, ten, fifty, years ago will come back. It sits in the chair, Banquo-like, at your feast. It's stamped on your inner breast, a blazing scarlet letter. The mark's on your hand. You rub. "Out damned spot!" But it won't out. Mighty fortunate you can wear a cloak or gloves! But it's there!

Hiding Our Sins.

Naturally we try to conceal the skeleton. We don't succeed. Proteus-like, when you conceal sin in one form it wriggles out in another. The difficulty is that sin is not a lifeless lump, but a force and a cause and comes under definite laws of conservation of energy and correlation of forces. Some day comes the crash. And it's the crash we dread, for to be brutally frank it isn't so much the thing itself that men fear and are ashamed of, but the exposure. The unpardonable sin of social ethics today is in being found out. Then, too, God forgive us, much depends in your sin whether you are a man or a woman, rich or poor, influential or friendless. But doesn't the man and the sinner in silk and the prominent culprit suffer shame and sorrow, too, preacher? Yes, but more often the weeping is unison caused. The eyes sheds tears because it smarts! The provoking cause is external, not internal, objective rather than subjective. Nevertheless out it will come. No ostrich with head in sand was ever more self-deceived than he who buries his secret in the sands of silence and thinks it concealed. There's a subtle miasmatic poisonous odor that affects the man's own self and makes others feel somehow there's something wrong. The finger of fate pointed plainly toward the tent of Achan and his buried booty. And it's the hellish mockery of the devil that a man may lose the very thing that he risked his all to get.

Telltale Finger Prints.

We chuckle in the darkness of our concealment, but every blundering finger touch leaves its mark. Sin is its own detective. A queer thing is that your sin will find you out. Catch that? Self exposure. In Leonardo's "The Last Supper" every voice is saying, "Lord, is it I?" Every face is in consternation but one. Judas is looking with unaffected mien—how bold is guilt!—but his hand betrays him. He has upset the salt! Sin once committed is a wild beast released. Tomorrow morning you may find it crouching at the door. Are you ready for its lancet claws and crunching jaws? But the sin was secret. In the home, in the crowd of the city, it's forgotten. No, not forgotten—hidden. Hide a seed and you have a plant. "Whatsoever a man soweth"—you know the rest. The proposition that "murder will out" means simply mental and temperamental lapses that leave unexpected flaws in the hiding of a wrong. It's due to some mystic thing within. Out in the forest the deed's done. No one heard the death groan. Dead men tell no tales. He wipes his knife. It's all over! No! By the Eternal, it's just begun! His neighbor's blood cries out to the ground. He's no longer in solitude. The whole air is alive. Every rustling leaf and passing wind tells the coming footsteps of vengeance. There's a mocking laugh. He starts. Who laughs? Only the call of a crow in the dead oak. Perhaps, as Hugo suggests, it's the soul's laughter at itself.

Judgment or Mercy?

You cannot avoid the escapee gaze of the Almighty. "Thou God seest me." God is not mocked. Been ten years now? The mills of God grind slowly. The chariot wheels drag. But he's coming! The sin done in secret? It shall be proclaimed upon the housetop. "That theft committed, that woman wronged, that scandal started, that lie told, that mother's heart broken—are they trooping back now, ghosts of past deeds, a fearful, ghastly throng? Is there no mercy—nothing but the blazing wrath of an offended God? Listen! What's that ringing in the inner soul? A bell. A bell? Yes, a bell! Crying, 'Tell, tell, tell!' Not to man, unless you've wronged man, but to God. 'I've sinned!' cries David. 'Against thee, thee only, have I sinned.' You cannot cover up sin; only God can! Bring sin out to the light of God. Green cassava root just dug is feebly poison. Exposed to sunlight it becomes tapoca; even invalids may eat it. A lie confessed is no longer a lie. If we confess our sins he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins."

"THE PAGEANT"

"Darkness and Light" A Great Operatic Spectacle.

Splendid Music and Orchestral Accompaniment—Several Hundred Professional and Amateur Performers Participate.

Cincinnati.—The Pageant of Darkness and Light is one of the big features of "The World in Cincinnati" and is given twice each day. Several hundred amateur performers participate, in fact nearly 5,000 in all, several groups having been drilled for each episode, so that no one group is required to appear constantly at the afternoon or evening performances.

The Times-Star says of the Pageant: "It is a stupendous spectacle. In wealth of picturesqueness, brilliancy of color, it is of a far more impressive character than any other pageant ever given at Music Hall."

Judging it from the accepted standards of a stage production, it may be described as an oratorio with stage pictures, and action supplementing the music and the poem. It merely tends to present in four episodes, each of which is complete in itself, incidents in the spread of Christianity among the heathen nations. The four cardinal points are used in these illustrations.

Pagoda, China Scene, "World in Cincinnati."

tions. The first is the north, showing a North American Indian village, the coming of the white man who has saved the chieftain's child, and, returning her, wins the confidence of the Red Men, who are then eager to accept the Gospel.

The Second Episode.

The second episode, representing the South, shows a scene in Africa, where the explorer, Livingston, is spreading civilization among the natives. He longs for home and is finally greeted by Stanley, who urges him to return with him.

The third episode represents the East. India is the scene and the action refers to the question of child wives and the burning of widows, which superstitions are rescinded. The fourth episode, representing the West, occurs in Hawaii.

The pageant is produced in very elaborate style, and has been so thoroughly rehearsed that there is never a hitch. The scenic effects are very effective, several of them exceptionally so, while the costumes are vivid and picturesque.

The music was written by Hamish McCunn, an English composer of considerable reputation. He not only employs the principals and chorus on the stage as in an opera, but also uses an extraneous chorus in the auditorium, which should represent the Christian world, and which sings those parts that refer to Christian sentiments.

The music is generally of a good and pleasing quality, more lyric than dramatic. The orchestral accompaniment lends a good support. The first episode is musically the most worthy, the tenor solo in particular being of great beauty and lyric charm. The climax of the third episode is also worthy of mention as is the music, for the greater part, in the final episode. It suggests the theater more than any other part, its dance rhythm at the opening indicating the ballet and its dramatic fervor approaching in spirit the action that is provided.

The Pageant Master is Percy J. Burrell and the musical director Edwin W. Glover. They have accomplished an exceptional task in welding the heterogeneous forces into a serviceable whole.

A LIST OF SPECIAL DAYS

Special days for various denominations or countries are being organized for "The World in Cincinnati" by numerous committees, and throughout the period the Exposition is opened, promise to be a considerable feature. The days so far arranged for are as follows:

March 20, Wednesday—Evangelical Day.

March 21, Thursday—Japan Day.

March 22, Friday—Lutheran Day.

March 23, Sunday—Children's Mass Meeting.

March 25, Monday—China Day.

March 26, Tuesday—Methodist Day.

March 27, Wednesday—Baptist Day.

March 28, Thursday—Ohio Day.

March 29, Friday—Disciples.

April 2, Tuesday—Presbyterian Day.

McCURTAIN COLLIERY GIVES UP VICTIMS

Twenty-Six Rescued Alive From Fated Mine.

McCurtain, Okla., March 22.—Fifty-six bodies and twenty-six living men have been brought out of the San Bois coal mine, in which an explosion occurred Wednesday. Thirty-five men are missing and in the hope that they may be found alive, rescue parties are still at work. Among the bodies was that of W. H. Ropier, chief surveyor for the San Bois company.

Fifteen men rescued were found huddled in a room on the thirteenth level. They rushed there when they heard the explosion and kept themselves alive with an air-pump. Searching parties were directed to the room by tapping on the air-pipes. The condition of two of the men is serious, but the others seem none the worse for their experience.

AN INVESTIGATION

Will Be Made Into Alleged Political Activity of Postal Inspectors.

Washington, March 22.—Senator Bristow's resolution directing the senate postoffice committee to investigate and report to the senate whether "postoffice inspectors are being sent through the country as political emissaries to influence postmasters to aid in the election of delegates for or against any candidate for the presidency," has been favorably reported to the senate by the committee. The resolution went to the calendar and will be considered in its turn.

BIG BLAZING STAR

Signaled Opening of the "World In Cincinnati."

Great Religious Spectacle and Missionary Exposition Is Attracting Thousands to Cincinnati.

Cincinnati.—The great Missionary Exposition called "The World in Cincinnati," the second of its kind to be held in the United States, was opened when President Taft pressed a button, illuminating a huge electric star. At the same moment a huge American flag was unfurled and the spectators which packed Pageant hall to the doors, arose and sang the national anthem. Large crowds visited the main exposition for the first time and crowds that tax the capacity of Music hall are daily thronging the big building from end to end.

Extraordinary Interest Shown.

Extraordinary interest is being shown in the exposition. Here and there through the life like scenes, courts and stalls of foreign lands, large groups of people are daily listening to the explanations of the costumed attendants or stewards in charge of the various exhibits. Every section has its quota of missionaries, who are mostly home on furlough from countries everywhere in the world. These men and women have many startling experiences to relate, many strange lands to describe, much to say about their work, and their earnestness makes them interesting talkers.

In the exhibition halls are booths representing China, Japan, Korea, India, etc. There one meets pretty American misses garbed in Turkish costume; also, Moorish women, with their faces concealed, all but the eyes. The colony of real American Indians, who stolidly mind their own business of making bead ornaments and other goods monopolized only by Poor Lo, attract much attention. Captain Gould, the ex-cowboy, also comes in for much attention. Gould takes pleasure in startling the small boy by lassoing him, and many kids deserted their parents to "unconsciously" wander near the fringe and be honored by a real plainsman.

There are a number of halls where special features of the Exposition are in progress. A Hall of Methods, showing missionary educational work, where gifted story-tellers and young people in simple dramatizations, provide instructive entertainment. Tableaux Hall and Moving Pictures Hall are just what their names imply. Tableaux in costumes, little plays, and many thousand feet of picture films, are special attractions to the crowds.

THE EXPOSITION PLEASES

Necessary to Repeat Demonstrations, Crowds Are So Large.

Some demonstrations at "The World in Cincinnati" attract such crowds that they have to be repeated more times than those scheduled to satisfy the visitors. At some hours five or six demonstrations are going on at the same time in different countries. There are "A Tour Through Africa," "A Palestine Wedding," "An Afternoon Call in Japan," "At the Well in Burma," and demonstrations of worship of the different deities in the Hall of Religions and other places. All are happening at the same time under one roof, while in the "Hall of the Homeland" things are moving at the same rate.

One of the most picturesque demonstrations this week is that of the immigrants clad in the costumes of different countries as they land at Ellis Island, led by G. W. Bunton, who march through the halls before going through the medical examination and other requirements of those who come to our shores.

SEVERAL HUNDRED ASSISTANTS.

The most notable part of this great Missionary Exposition is the immense number of persons assisting voluntarily in one way or another. Mingling with the crowds and peopling the scenes from foreign lands are men and women from Boston churches, wearing the native dress of every land under the sur

TEMPERANCE NOTES

HOSPITALS CUT OUT ALCOHOL

Nine Dublin Institutions Show Remarkable Decrease in Use of Stimulants—Hard on Traffic.

An interesting report of the Irish Association for the Prevention of Intemperance has just recently been issued, and states that a return has been made principally from the report of the board of superintendence of Dublin hospitals of the amount of stimulants used. The nine hospitals dealt with by the board expended in 1884 £1,053 6s 9d, with an average number of 742.85 beds, or 28s 4d per bed per annum; and in 1910 expended £218 15s 7d, with an average number of 989.08 beds, or 4s 5d per bed per annum. The honorary secretary for the National Hospital for Consumption, Dublin, wrote: "I beg to say that stimulants are not as a rule used in the treatment of patients at this hospital." The secretary of the National Maternity hospital also wrote: "During the year 1909 there were but two bottles of brandy consumed and two quart bottles of whisky." The average number of beds in this latter hospital was about thirty, giving, roughly, a consumption of one gill of spirits per bed per year, or four drops per patient. No harder blow has been given to alcohol than its gradual abandonment in case of sickness.

GREAT DAMAGE BY ALCOHOL

Visiting Physician to Brooklyn Prison Points Out Need of More Active Interest By Public.

The need of more active public interest in the prime-producing influence of alcohol is thus clearly brought out by Dr. Moses Keschner, visiting physician to the city prison of the borough of Brooklyn (New York Medical Journal):

"Millions are spent annually to eradicate infectious diseases; great stress is laid on the prevention and treatment of bubonic plague and pellagra; most sumptuous sanatoria are constructed to harbor persons afflicted with the 'white plague;' yet the damage inflicted physically and economically by alcohol is far greater than inflicted by all the infectious diseases put together.

"Jails, workhouses and penitentiaries in this state cost millions to maintain, and these harbor criminals, 60 per cent. of whom owe their origin in crime to alcohol."

Do you know that of all the minor ailments colds are by far the most dangerous? It is not the cold itself that you need to fear, but the serious diseases that it often leads to. Most of these are known as germ diseases. Pneumonia and consumption are among them. Why not take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and cure your cold while you can? For sale by all dealers.

DEPRIVES TALE OF ITS TERROR

The True Inwardness of That Bomb Resolution.

IRON WORKERS ARE ABSOLVED

Recent Sensational Story of a Formal Resolution Submitted in Iron Workers' Convention Suspending Use of Explosives While Convention Was in Session, Is Explained by Stenographer as Relating to a Joke.

Indianapolis, March 23.—President Frank M. Ryan of the iron workers' union, nearly half a hundred of whose members are indicted in the dynamite cases, has received a letter from James O'Donnell of Philadelphia, who was official stenographer at the national convention of the union at Rochester, in 1910, and who kept a record of the proceedings. O'Donnell, writing to Ryan, says he remembers distinctly the circumstances surrounding the introduction of the resolution against explosions while the convention was in session, and that the resolution was purely a joke.

In this explanation O'Donnell supports the version given by H. S. Hockin, secretary of the union, who, on the day following the time it became generally known that a resolution had been introduced at Rochester "that no more bombs be exploded while this convention is in session," said the resolution was aimed at the use of fire-crackers in the convention, as one of the delegates had been shooting off cannon crackers in the back end of the hall. Ryan, also, after consideration, said he remembered that the resolution was a joke.

O'Donnell's letter for the first time makes public the name of the author of the resolution. This was Thomas Slattery of Brooklyn. O'Donnell says the resolution was referred to the "twilight committee" of the convention, which further shows, he says, that it was a joke. President Ryan explains that the "twilight committee" was the designation given to a "bunch of good fellows" among the delegates, the practice of the "bunch" being to stay out all night and have a good time, when conventions were meeting.

O'Donnell says government agents at Philadelphia took him to the federal building there and questioned him concerning the resolution, and at first told him they did not believe the story that he told, but after he had "stuck to it" they apparently dropped the matter.

Passengers in an Interurban Car Have a Painful Experience.

Peru, Ind., March 23.—A passenger car on the Fort Wayne & Indiana Northern interurban line jumped the track three miles west of Peru, plunged down a twelve-foot embankment and landed right side up in the bed of the old Wabash & Erie canal.

Notwithstanding the passenger list included thirty-five passengers, none was killed and no bones are reported broken. The car was traveling thirty-five miles an hour when it ran into a pile of cinders dumped for ballast at the side of the track. The descent into the canal bed was over a space of 200 feet, and when the car stopped the wheels were buried in the ground. The thirty-five passengers were piled in a heap, thrown from their seats in a pile against the smoker door, and several received painful bruises.
